

ABSTRACT

A magnetic damper comprises a movable braking plate for receiving an operating element of an actuator, and a stator for 5 attracting the braking plate by a magnetic force. A magnetic attraction force acting between the stator and the braking plate is used as a braking force for stopping the operating element.